ABOUT THE SONG

Bye Bye Love has a country rock feel with a Muddy Waters-like intro. The song was turned down by multiple artists including Elvis Presley, but when the Everly Brothers recorded it in 1957 it rose to number two on the Billboard Pop Music charts and number one on the Country Music charts. It was written by Felice and Boudleaux Bryant, a husband and wife song writing team that wrote many of the Everly's hits including "Wake Up Little Suzy" and "All I Have to Do Is Dream."
